METRO

Deranged lover slits girlfriend's throat inside NYC home — then calmly lounges on sofa: sources

By Steven Vago, Joe Marino and David DeTurris

Published May 17, 2026, 4:50 p.m. ET

See more of our coverage in your search results.

Add The New York Post on Google

A deranged boyfriend fatally slit his girlfriend's throat inside their Brooklyn apartment early Sunday morning – and then calmly lounged on a sofa as he waited for cops to arrive, sources said.

Officers found the 41-year-old victim with multiple stab wounds and her throat slashed after they were called for an assault in progress at the intersection of Cooper Street and Irving Avenue in the hip nabe of Bushwick around 8:50 a.m., police said.

Responding cops had heard the woman crying for help from a nearby townhouse, saying she was being stabbed, according to sources.

The NYPD at the scene of where a man allegedly killed his girlfriend inside their Bushwick, Brooklyn apartment building on May 17, 2026.
Gregory P. Mango for NY Post

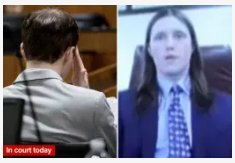
“I heard yelling and shattered glass,” one neighbor told The Post. “Five minutes later, the police arrived.”

Authorities on scene tried to get in through the front door of the apartment, but had to hop through a back window to get into the building, sources said.

EXPLORE MORE

More heartbreak for family of toddler allegedly injured by daycare worker in freak fall

Murdered mom from tony NY town struggled with troubled son for years before she was slaughtered in own home



Alleged Charlie Kirk killer’s trans lover reveals moment he tearfully confessed to the shooting

Once inside, cops were greeted by a gory scene.

The victim was laid out on the floor of her living room, with a slashed throat in addition to the multiple stab wounds, sources said.

The man who had done her in was sitting calmly nearby on a sofa when cops entered the room, according to sources. He was taken into custody but had not yet been charged by Sunday evening.

Police found the 41-year-old victim with multiple stab wounds and her throat slashed.

Gregory P. Mango for NY Post

EMS rushed the woman to Brookdale Hospital in critical condition, where she later died, according to authorities.

Alyssa, who lives upstairs from the couple, said she buzzed cops into the building then witnessed EMTs wheel the woman out of the building.

“It wasn’t good. It was a lot of blood. It was on her body,” Alyssa said.

The suspect was calmly sitting on a sofa when cops arrived.

Gregory P. Mango for NY Post

She also saw cops walk out the deranged boyfriend.

“He was sitting on this first step, barefoot. Surrounded by cops,” Alyssa said of the stabber.

What do you think? Be the first to comment.

Sources said that the maniac boyfriend had at least 20 priors, including an assault, robberies, and burglaries.

The two had one prior domestic incident, according to sources.

FILED UNDER BROOKLYN, BUSHWICK, CRIME, DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, MURDERS, NYPD, STABBINGS, 5/17/26

READ NEXT Heidi Montag's two-word tweet goes viral as husband Spence...

NEW YORK POST LOG IN Edition CA ✓ NY
US News Metro Long Island Politics World News
RECOMMENDED
12:41